

AT LEAST SIXTY
DOE KILLED ON SATURDAY; ONE
HUNTER IS HURT

The deer hunting season came to an end Saturday with what veteran hunters claimed was the largest number of sportsmen in history visiting nearby wooded areas in search of game.

State Game Warden Leo Bushman said today that in 26 years of experience he has "never seen anything like the turnout Saturday."

The rattle of guns in the South Mountains resembled war time conditions in Europe and led Bushman to comment that "it seemed like everyone who could beg, borrow or steal anything from a shotgun to a high powered rifle was in there trying to shoot one of the antlerless deer."

One Hunter Treated Here

So far as is known the damage to hunters was not as great as had been expected despite the large number of men and women seeking deer. On a state-wide scale the Associated Press reported that seven hunters died out of an estimated 200,000 hunters. Five died by gunshot wounds and two as a result of heart attacks.

Locally one hunter was treated at the Warner hospital. The man, Charles Rutter, York, shot himself through the left thigh. He was treated and discharged.

The game warden counted 125 cars parked along the road in the five-mile stretch south of Kane's store to the old Pete Baker place. A sur-

Three York county men Saturday night paid fines of $25 each and costs on charges of transporting a deer illegally, after taking the deer, belonging to Fred McCauslin, Bendersville, from in front of the Lincoln Logs, on Lincolnway East, shortly after 6 o'clock Saturday night.

A charge of larceny preferred by McCauslin against James Urey, of Highrock R. 1, York county, was dismissed on payment of costs when McCauslin got his deer back. However, Urey paid $25 and costs to Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore on a charge of transporting an untaxed deer, state police of the Gettysburg sub-station said.

Similar fines for transporting an untaxed deer were also paid by Walter W. Posey and Harry O. Urey, also of Highrock.

Deer Is Stolen

State police said McCauslin shot the deer Saturday while hunting in the mountains, and had brought it back to the Lincoln Logs, where he is employed, leaving it outside the place.

The York county men, who had been in the Lincoln Logs, police said, picked up the deer when they left the place. McCauslin followed and caught up to them in New Oxford. A call was put into the sub-station here, and the two Ureys and Posey were arrested.

Adjournment Of Big Four
May Be Asked By Marshall

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Top American diplomatic officials said today that unless Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov unexpectedly softens his stand on German reparations a move may be expected almost immediately to end the London conference of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

These informants said after a meeting of Secretary of State Marshall and ranking members of the American delegation that if the reparations issue remains as tightly deadlocked as it became last Friday night, then "all other discussion which might be held here is purely academic."

Indications were that Marshall himself would take the lead in proposing an adjournment of the London meeting, assuming that Molotov holds to the reparations position he took on Friday.

The decisions of the American delegation this morning were expected to be discussed with British and French officials prior to this afternoon's council session (10:30 a. m., EST).

USSR REVALUES RUBLE; SEEK TO SLOW INFLATION

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Dec. 15 (AP)—Soviet Russia is converting her paper rubles in circulation at one-tenth their face value, effective tomorrow, as a means of checking inflation which has boosted prices of some goods to 10 or 15 times their pre-war level.

War profiteers were singled out by the decree, announced last night, as a target for an involved program of "currency reform."

Coupled with revaluation was the rationing of food and consumer goods. Moreover, prices of 10 to 12 per cent were announced on such commodities as wheat, flour, cereals, macaroni and eggs.

Order "Adjustments"

An adjustment between "the existing high commercial prices (those in non-rationed stores) and the relatively low prices of rationed supplies was ordered in a wide variety of other supplies, including milk, eggs, tea, fabrics, footwear and clothing.

(This suggested the great bulk of the Russian population would be receiving more.)

Officially, the ruble has been worth 18 cents in exchange with United States money, but there has been no free exchange. A more realistic ratio of rubles to dollars has been the diplomatic rate—diplomats were able to get 12 rubles for $1 in Moscow. Still another value was placed on the ruble by Harold Stassen after his visit to Soviet Russia. He said it was worth about a nickel.

(The decreed cash exchange for unbanked rubles is equivalent to a swap of dollars for dimes, but the new prices of goods give the "dimes" new value.)

On Sliding Scale

The conversion rates for the ruble, aside from cash presented for exchange, is on a sliding scale up from one old ruble for one new one.

Pre-1947 internal loans were ordered merged into a single state debt, "the exchange to be effected on a basis of three rubles in previous loans for one ruble in the new unified loan." But "treaty obligations between the U.S.S.R. and foreign states remain unchanged."

Deposits of up to 3,000 rubles in savings banks and the state bank will be revalued at "one ruble for one ruble." Deposits totaling more will be converted to the rate of one-for-one on the first 3,000 rubles, three-for-two on the next 7,000 and three-for-one on all above 10,000.

(The decree was the first admission by the U.S.S.R. that the controlled Russian economy had been affected by post-war inflation. The Soviet action came 10 days after a statement in Washington by Under-Secretary of State Robert Lovett that something "in the nature of panic buying" had gripped Russia following rumors of impending devaluation of the ruble.)

Pirates Board Ship And Rob Passengers

Hong Kong, Dec. 15 (AP)—Pirates boarded the 4,552-ton Dutch passenger ship Van Heutz, robbed the passengers of cash and jewelry valued at hundreds of thousands of Hong Kong dollars and escaped in commandeered junks today after temporarily holding the captain hostage.

A. H. Elston, director of criminal investigation, announced that the vessel was looted and controlled by the pirates for about 15 hours after it was about four hours out of Hong Kong yesterday on a trip to Swatow, Chinese port, about 180 miles north-east of here.

The vessel returned today to Hong Kong and Elston questioned crew members and passengers. They estimated the pirates numbered about 25.

Apparently some of the raiders boarded the ship here disguised as passengers and had a rendezvous with confederates at Bias Bay. They took over the ship at gunpoint and searched it from bow to stern, holding the captain and officers in the ship's motorboat.

Head Of Salvation Army Dies Sunday

Summit, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP)—General Edward J. Higgins, 83-year-old third international leader of the Salvation Army, died yesterday at Fair Oaks sanitarium here. He had been ill a month.

General Higgins, who was succeeded in 1934 by General Evangeline Booth, relinquished the post due to ill health over the protest of Salvation Army throughout the world. He was elected to head the Salvation Army in 1929, succeeding General Bramwell Booth.

General Higgins was the first man outside the Booth family to head the Salvation Army. He joined the movement at the age of 18, and spent nine of his 47 years of service in the United States.

ROYAL COUPLE BACK IN LONDON

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were back in the workaday world of royalty today after 23 days of honeymoon seclusion.

The young couple stepped off the Aberdeen express yesterday and were whisked away to Buckingham palace, where they will live until their own quarters in Clarence house—an old mansion overlooking St. James park—are ready for occupancy.

For Philip, the end of the honeymoon meant a return to his duties with the royal navy. Still on the active list with the rank of lieutenant, he was scheduled to take up a new post at once in the admiralty's operations division.

Elizabeth will oversee the redecoration of Clarence House, which will take about a year.

The royal honeymooners' return to London coincided with the 52nd birthday of King George VI, which was observed with a family party at Windsor castle. The birthday is celebrated officially on June 13—because the weather then is more propitious for public ceremonies traditional to the occasion.

BALDWIN DIES AT 80 IN ENGLAND

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Earl Baldwin, 80, thrice Prime Minister of Britain, died in his sleep Saturday at his home in Stourport, Worcestershire—11 years after he had forced Edward VIII to renounce his throne as the price for choosing to marry an American divorcee.

It was Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and the late Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, who told Edward that he must renounce either the throne or twice-divorced Wallis Warfield Simpson. Edward chose abdication.

It was Baldwin, who, on December 10, stood before the House of Commons with tears in his eyes and delivered the message of abdication from Edward, a personal friend.

"No more grave message has ever been received by Parliament and no more difficult, and I might say, more repugnant task has ever been imposed on a Prime Minister," he said.

Shortly thereafter Baldwin became Earl Baldwin of Bewdley and retired to his birthplace in Stourport to "raise pigs." Baldwin, often described as the "most English of Englishmen," was a conservative in politics who believed firmly in British-American cooperation.

He survived by two sons and four daughters. His wife died two years ago. Cremation is to take place in Birmingham on Wednesday or Thursday.

Mrs. Welsh was arrested in connection with a raccoon coat said to have been stolen from a cocktail lounge here.

Lilya said Welsh had told him he planned to "turn tough guy to please his wife because he loves her." He said Welsh explained the syringes were intended for use in doping

ALLY FAILS AS BULLETS BOW TO ALBRIGHT 47-45

A last period rally by the Gettysburg college eagles fell short by two points when the Bullets dropped their first game of the season Saturday evening to Albright 47-45 at adding.

The Bullets trailed throughout but the last period George Fair, Bobby March and Gaylord Fissel most pulled the game from the losers. March stabbed in a one-handed shot from the side for the final score of 47-45 just seconds before the final whistle.

Albright held a 14-point lead with eight minutes of play remaining when the Bullets put on their rally.

Anlian Runs Wild
Eddie Anlian, sharp-shooting Lion forward, who tabbed 29 points here in the year, accounted for 18 points of the winners and was easily the star of the contest.

Neither team scored in the first five and one-half minutes as both sides fought defensive games. Anlian tied the first point on a foul. At the end of the period the Lions led 45-31 and at half time increased their margin to 25-15.

The scoring was even in the third period and at the start of the final period Albright was in front 38-28.

The Bullets showed decided improvement over their first game against Susquehanna and had they had a little more luck on their shots probably would have triumphed. Scores of shots dipped into the basket or rode the rim only to fall on the outside.

Delaware Next Foe
George Fair and George Gorman added 11 and nine points respectively to pace the Bream-men.

On Wednesday evening the Bullets will attempt to regain their winning ways when Delaware plays here in the final game before the Christmas holidays.

HARRY WALKER BATTLING CHAMP SENIOR LEAGUE
By RALPH RODEN
New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Harry Walker of the Philadelphia Phillies, who failed to make the grade with the Phils in 1939, was being hailed today as the 1947 batting champion of the National League.

The brilliant Philly outfielder finished the past season with a .363 mark, according to final official figures released by the league yesterday.

Walker, who played in ten games with the St. Louis Cardinals before moving to the Phils, where he performed in 130 more, collected 186 hits in 513 trips to the plate, including a homer, 16 triples and 29 doubles. His 16 three-baggers also topped the loop.

Younger brother of the better known "Dixie," who was recently shipped from Brooklyn to Pittsburgh, Harry outdistanced Boston's Bob Elliott for the title by more than 40 points.

Other First Ten
Elliott, the league's most valuable player, batted .317, three points higher than Chicago's Phil Cavarretta and Cincinnati's Augie Galan who wound up in a tie for third place with 314 marks.

Rounding out the top ten are Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, fifth, 313; Stan Musial, St. Louis, sixth, 312; George Kuroski, St. Louis, seventh, 310; Tommy Holmes, Boston, and Pete Reiser, Brooklyn, eighth, 309, and "Dixie" Walker, tenth, 306.

While Walker won the hit crown, a breeze, Kiner and New York's Johnny Mize grabbed most of the slugging honors. Each banged 51 homers to share the lead in that department while Kiner hit for the most total bases, 361, and Mize batted in the most runs, 138, and scored the most, 137.

Gets Most Doubles
Remaining individual laurels were gained by Eddie Miller of Cincinnati, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Holmes.

Miller collected the most doubles, 38; Robinson made the most sacrifices, 28, and stole the most bases, 29; Schoendienst went to bat the

Mountain States Teams Head East

By BEN FUNK
Denver, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Utah State Farmers traveled eastward today and Utah's "Blitz Boys" will follow close behind, hoping to better this season's record of the Mountain States conference against Eastern basketball opposition.

Utah State, which broke even last week with a 63-58 win over Montana and a 55-54 loss to San Francisco, will open its Eastern campaign against St. Bonaventure at Buffalo, N. Y., Thursday. The Farmers also will play C.C.N.Y. in New York and Duquesne at Pittsburgh, then tangle with Lawrence Tech at Detroit and Loras college at Duquesne, Ia., on the road back.

Utah's National Invitation champions, who trampled Montana 72-43 Friday for their second one-sided victory, then stumbled before the San Francisco Dons, 39-37, will play Springfield at Salt Lake City next Friday before heading eastward.

The "Blitz Boys" will launch their road campaigns against Canisius at Buffalo December 27 and will play St. John's in New York, La Salle at Philadelphia, Westminster at Farrell, Pa., Cincinnati at Cincinnati and Western Michigan at Kalamazoo.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The first requirement for a man who runs a big league baseball farm system is a good memory. Red Rolfe, the former Yankee third baseman and Yale coach who recently took charge of Detroit's minor league operations, says the remarkable thing about the whole business is how his memory has improved since he has had to keep track of the players on a dozen clubs.

The way Red tells it, he'll have to do a lot more remembering, because the Tigers are just beginning to rebuild a chain that was reduced to almost nothing—first by Judge Landis' famous ruling that freed about 90 farmhands, then the war and Jack Zoller's decision to get out of chain-store baseball. "We have a few good players who will," Rolfe says, "but none who will be up with Detroit soon. I haven't seen all the players yet, but I'd like to see I can have an idea of how good they are and won't have to depend so much on reports."

Sounds like a tough job, but Red insists: "I like this kind of work."

TOUCH OF COLOR
Examples of notably apt wording on various sport subjects: Stanley Lowe, Marquette U. ticket director who is trying to satisfy the demand for the New Year's Eve game with Wisconsin: "Now I know what it probably is like to be trapped in a pressure cooker."

Harold Keith, Oklahoma U. publicity: "The big six basketball race is as wide open as Joe E. Brown's mouth."

Red Smith, New York Herald-Tribune columnist, on Friday's bout between Ike Williams and Tony (the clutch) Pellone: "Williams fought like a trout in a landing net."

MONDAY MATINEE
Lewis Andreas, Syracuse U. athletic director and basketball coach, reports there's a lot more interests in college rowing since the inauguration of that spring championship regatta on the west coast. "The trip is a big thing for the boys," he explains. "Syracuse is taking a western basketball trip, with a visit to the Rose Bowl game, and everybody turned out for the team this year."

Joe Louis has given up golf. But only temporarily, Joe says he won't have time because he'll just get back from England in time to start training for his June fight.

Miami Open Won
By Jimmy Demaret
Miami, Fla., Dec. 15 (AP)—Dapper Jimmy Demaret headed for a Houston, Tex., vacation today after winning the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament yesterday with a record-equalling 267-13 strokes under par—for 72 holes of play.

Already the year's leading money winner, he boosted his total earnings by $2,000 in the Miami Open for a 12-month total of $26,556.

Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans won second money of $1,400 with a 269, and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., took third place and $1,000 at 271.

most times, 659, and Holmes garnered the most hits, 191, and the most singles, 146.

The New York Giants dominated the league in club batting. The Giants batted 221 homers, a major league record and established a number of homer marks while doing so. They also batted in the most runs, 790, scored the most, 830, and accounted for the most total bases, 2,425.

Boston led in batting with a .275 mark, also in doubles with 265 and sacrifices, 129. The Cards went to bat the most, 5,422, collected the most hits, 1,462, and socked the most triples, 65, Brooklyn stole the most bases, 88.

In the depression of 1920 rubber prices dropped from 55 cents a pound to 10.

NITTANY LIONS SET ALL-TIME DEFENSE MARK

By GAIL BOWLER

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Southern Methodist's football brain trust already knows its Cotton Bowl opponent—Penn State—set an all-time defense record against rushing this year and turned in the best total defense mark since 1937.

But if the Mustangs figure their best bet against the Nittany Lions is through the air, let them cogitate that on a percentage basis, Penn State's aerial umbrella the past season was the most effective in the nation. Only 27.2 per cent of enemy tosses found their mark.

On the customary basis of yards yielded per game, North Carolina State nosed out Colorado college for the pass defense crown, while Penn State hogged total and rushing defense honors.

Holds Two Records
The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, in releasing final defense statistics today, did a little research and came up with the information that Penn State now holds both ground and air defense records.

Back in 1938 the staters set three pass defense records that still stand. Foes that year completed only 10 passes in eight games, for average gains of 13.1 yards per game and 1.78 yards per pass attempt.

This year the Lions held their nine foes to an average of only 17 ground yards per game. Against both rushes and passes Penn State yielded 76.8 yards per game, lowest since Santa Clara's record 69.9 in 1937.

Thus Penn State not only reversed the trend by setting a terrific defensive pace in a season dedicated to offense, but the Lions also won over-all statistical honors. They finished fourth in total offense with 363.9 yards averaged per game, and second in rushing offense behind leading Detroit, with 301.4.

Notre Dame Second
So the staters held a 287.1 yards per game advantage over their opponents' gains, followed by Notre Dame, 240.4, and Michigan, 221.3. Michigan won the total offense crown with the Irish second.

Following Penn State on a percentage basis of enemy passes completed, were Colorado college, 28.2 per cent; Detroit, 28.4; Temple, 29.9; Maryland, 30.3; San Francisco, 30.4; St. Mary's, 30.7, and Davidson, 30.8.

Penn State gave up the fewest points among these majors, allowing 27. Georgia Tech and Pennsylvania yielded 35 apiece, Notre Dame and Kentucky 52 each and Michigan 53.

Others besides Notre Dame that repeated among the top 15 were Penn State, third last year, William and Mary, Holy Cross, North Carolina State, Texas and Davidson. Only clubs placing among the top 15 in both offense and defense this year were Penn State, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech and Detroit.

Browns Defeat Yanks to Win League Crown
By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Cleveland's powerful Browns owned the championship of the All-America Football conference for another year today and it looked like they would continue to dominate the young professional circuit as long as Otto Graham and Marion Motley retain their health.

The Browns defended the title with bone-crushing authority yesterday by flattening the New York Yankees, 14-3, on the snow-lined turf of Yankee stadium and as usual it was Graham's passing and Motley's running that gave the Ohioans the edge.

An overcasted throng of 61,879 watched the conference's western division titlists score in the first and third periods to spoil the bid of the eastern champs to win the flag on the same ground where their baseball counterparts had captured the World Series only ten weeks before.

It was even more decisive than a year ago, when the Browns won the inaugural playoff by subduing the same Yankees, 14-9, at Cleveland.

The 60,103 customers who paid their way into the park contributed to gross receipts of $209,820.50, of which $140,130.21 was left after the deduction of taxes and game expenses. Of the $98,691.14 in the players' pool, the Browns divided $47,083.75 and the Yankees collected $31,389.17. The winning players each drew $1,191.99 while the individual shares of the losers were $794.66.

ALL-OPPONENT TEAM

Penn State-Texas Soccer Is Cancelled

(By The Associated Press)

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 15 (AP)—The pre-Cotton Bowl exhibition soccer game between the Penn State team and a group of Texas all-stars has been cancelled.

Soccer Football association, said yesterday that he had received a telegram from William Jeffery, Penn State soccer coach, that all school officials were away and it would be impossible to obtain permission at this late date for his team to make the trip.

Merchants Bow in 55-45 Tilt to House of David
The Gettysburg Merchants dropped a 55-45 decision to the House of David passers Saturday evening on the Gettysburg high school floor.

At half time the visitors held a 25-7 lead and breezed through the last half with a comfortable lead at all times.

Plechner and O'Brien tabbed eight field goals apiece for the Merchants while McClain topped the bewhiskered lads with 15 tumbles.

In the preliminary game the Dorsey-Stanton Legion team lost to the Hanover A. A. quintet. The Hanover team was substituted after the Vets Institute of Baltimore notified the Legionnaires they would be unable to keep their engagement.

Manager Dick Thompson is attempting to have the Frederick Pros play a return game here Thursday evening. The Pros gained a 55-49 victory at Frederick last Friday after a nip and tuck battle and the return tilt promises to be a thriller.

LOCAL MATMEN PIN LEOPARDS IN 1ST MATCH

(By The Associated Press)

Scoring three falls and winning four other bouts on referee's decisions, the Gettysburg college wrestling team got off to a good start when it triumphed 27-3 over Lafayette at Easton Saturday night in the Bullets' opening match.

Sam Schmittenner, 121, Joe Erb, 145, and Charles Reider, heavyweight, scored the falls for the bullets.

Lafayette's only win came in the 175-pound event in which Wright scored a hard fought 9-7 referee's decision over Dick Binder.

The Bullets face a rugged assignment Thursday evening when Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, last year's Mason-Dixon champion, comes here. The Hopkins outfit, which permits use of freshmen, has been bolstered by three first-year men who were Maryland Association Scholastic champions last year.

Summaries of Saturday's match follow:
121—Schmittenner, Gettysburg, threw Fligley in 6:57.
128—Dick Dodds, Gettysburg, won over Middleton by a referee's decision, 6-0.
136—Ted Lenker, Gettysburg, won 10-2 referee's decision over Graham.
145—Joe Erb, Gettysburg, threw Griffo in 2:15.
155—Lonce Soult, Gettysburg, won over Friant 6-5 by a referee's decision.
165—Russ Reigel, Gettysburg, gained a 4-0 referee's decision over Xanthopolous.
175—Wright, Lafayette, won a 9-7 decision over Dick Binder.
Heavyweight—Charles Reider, Gettysburg, threw Horner in 1:52.

THREE TIED IN NEW GRID LOOP

Harrisburg, Dec. 15 (AP)—The newly organized Central Pennsylvania Interscholastic Football league's first grid season ended in a triple tie for the championship, with Lancaster, Lebanon, and Steelton sharing the honors.

The three teams received identical trophies at the league's first annual meeting here on Saturday, while the league voted to rotate the Edward S. (Snaps) Emanuel trophy among the three schools with each school having it in the school's possession for a period of four months.

The trophy was presented as a memorial to the late York high school football coach who was killed in a train accident on the day before the 1944 season was to get under way.

Earl A. Masters of Reading was elected as president of the league, succeeding C. E. Gaskins, of Lebanon. Other officers named were Leroy F. Derr, Williamsport, vice-president, and William H. Wisler, Reading, secretary-treasurer.

The league is made up of Lancaster, Lebanon, Steelton, York, Reading, Williamsport, John Harris, and William Penn, the last two of Harrisburg.

ON STORING COURAGE

People store money away, in the shape of an account at the bank and in certain securities, in which they place faith and confidence, but there is greater security in the storing of courage! There have been examples of this again and again.

Courage may be said to be on a par with "manna from heaven." It is rust proof, theft proof, and proof against all agencies of human destruction. All the humanitarian efforts accorded to the unfortunate of this world, wrapped as they are in the throes of hunger and homelessness, would be in vain, did not some reserve of courage remain, to set them again on the road to a decent recovery.

When a man's bank account is wiped out, or all of his material securities have gone, by no means is he a failure, if he has stored sufficient courage to give him a "come-back." Dickens had it. Mark Twain had it—and an endless number of others, who are the inspiration of us all. But, without this stored up courage, a man is bankrupt indeed.

Every temporary defeat may offer the opportunity for the storing of new courage, new hope, and new determination. Some of you may have heard of Alfred Ollivant, or read some of his books. He was a cavalry officer, and he fell from his horse and was made an invalid. While in this condition, and on his back, he conceived and wrote one of the greatest dog stories ever written, "Bob, Son of Battle." He drew upon his stored up courage.

Many a soldier boy, in the late war, is back home, and engaged in useful service, because of the stored up courage that he drew upon in battle, or in some hospital. It is this security that is so important for all of us to have, and to keep ever in reserve.

Daily decisions, that at the moment may not appear to be so valuable, are yet those that accumulate courage that keeps adding up to a plentiful supply when greater times demand heavy payment in courage. You can borrow on this when no bank would come to your rescue! Courage is the supreme asset—and it can be made unlimited!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Song Across the Ages"

Just Folks

The Poet of the People

SIGNS OF CHRISTMAS

When a pair of little nippers
Ask if they can get your slippers
Or put up a furious battle

To be first upon your knee,
When with loving care they task you

As their grandpa, let me ask you:
Do you need someone to tell you
Just what day is soon to be?

When they watch and wait for
Your step

And they meet you at the doorstep
Just to smother you with kisses,
Seeming glad your smile to see,

Do you instantly remember
We are almost through December?

Or, does someone have to tell you
Just what day is soon to be?

I could give you forty reasons
Why I love this best of seasons,
But this one should be sufficient—
Or I'll say it is for me:

I thank the Lord above me
That the little nippers love me,
And I like their way of showing
Christmas Day is soon to be.

vey made over a few miles of the Mt. Hope road showed 60 cars parked within that distance.

Over 100 Bucks Reported

His report to the state showed the largest figures for kill in recent years. Based on reports made to him, Bushman estimated that at least 60 antlerless deer were shot in the one-day season Saturday. That included does and young bucks without visible antlers.

The hunters also shot several spike bucks and left them in the mountains, the game warden reported.

Over 100 bucks were shot during the season ending Friday, Bushman estimated. That amount is about 20 more than usual for the area.

Hunt Crippled Animals

The steady blast of gunfire in the hills Saturday led game officials to hope that the hunters were either very good shots or else very poor ones. But what they found in the hills led them to conclude that the poor shots were plentiful.

Today they continued the search along blood trails for wounded deer which were not brought down by the shooters. Game wardens expect to find a "lot of cripples" in the hills and already have found several deer that were shot and then continued on in a wounded condition to die far from where the hunter first poured shot into them.

The one-day antlerless deer season was legalized by the Pennsylvania Game Commission to reduce the size of the state's herd and give relief to farmers and orchardists while curtailing the overall deer population in order to bring it somewhere near the available food supply.

May Need Feeding

Sportsmen in Adams and Franklin counties attempted to get the antlerless deer season closed in those two counties, but fell short of the required goal of several thousand signatures needed to close the counties from hunting on Saturday. The state had contended that the shooting needed to be on a state-wide scale to prevent congestion of hunters within limited areas which would have increased the risk of accidents.

With the deer population in the county cut down tremendously by the buck season and Saturday's shooting, game protectors and sportsmen's associations today reminded counties that what remains of the county's herds will probably need feeding if severe weather clamps down over this section. One of the reasons given by the state for holding the Saturday slaughter was to prevent thousands of deer in the state from dying of starvation if the winter proves severe.

Hunters were also reminded that they must get reports of game killed off to the state within five days. A tentative estimate by state game commissioners today put the state kill Saturday in the state at 50,000 deer.

Day's Victims

Stray bullets brought down most of the men killed throughout the state, the Associated Press reported. Orvis Kauffman, 28, Butler; and James Hyde, 35, Sheakessville, were both struck in the head by stray bullets in Forest county. Robert T. Wales, 19, Felton R. 1, was killed by a stray bullet in Clinton county. Jack J. Judy, 17, Rutherford Heights, was killed shortly after the season opened while hunting near Harrisburg. John F. Daniels, 48, Lykens R. D., was killed near Coudersport, also by a stray bullet. Dead of heart attacks were Eugene Merle Allison, 22, Harrisburg, and J. Irwin Black, South Williamsport, formerly of York, both of whom died while walking through woods.

One woman, Miss Nellie Titus, 51, of Barnes, near Warren, Pa., was hit in the shoulder by a stray bullet that penetrated a wall of her house, the Associated Press reported. She was the only "civilian" reported wounded during the battle for the doe.

With the small game season and the deer season over, the round of restocking is to begin again. Warden Bushman said today that 32 dozen rabbits for lower Adams county are expected in the very near future and that in addition several hundred rabbits from Letterkenny will be brought to Adams county soon for restocking purposes.

VAN BUREN NEW GROUND GAINER KING OF PROS

By LEE LINDER

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles is the new ground-gaining king of the National Football league today.

The former Louisiana state university speedster cracked two NFL records—one 13 years old, the other 10—as the Eagles defeated Green Bay 28-14 yesterday and upset two jinxes: (1) whipping the Packers for the first time in NFL history and (2) getting into the NFL division playoffs.

The Eagles tied Pittsburgh for the eastern division crown and will battle the Steelers next Sunday—the winner meets the Chicago Cardinals December 28 in the Windy City for the NFL title.

Steve piled up 1,008 yards in 217 attempts in piling up his second ground-gaining crown in the four years of his play-for-pay career. That's a 4.6-yard each time he crashed through.

The 1,008 figure was four yards better than the Chicago Bears' Beattie Feathers compiled in 1934. Feathers carried the pigskin 117 times for an 8.5-yard average.

Tops Old Mark

In 1937 Washington's Cliff Battle carried 216 times for 874 yards. Van Buren topped that mark by one.

In four seasons of NFL play, Van Buren has scored 262 points, including 84 for 14 touchdowns this year. He carried the ball 556 times for a total gain of 2,813 yards—that's better than five per carry.

At that rate he's a cinch to eclipse the 10-season record amassed by Green Bay's Clarke Hinkle who gained 3,860 yards in 1,171 attempts (from 1932 to 1941).

Sunday's Results

Chicago Cardinals, 30; Chicago Bears, 21.

Philadelphia, 28; Green Bay, 14.

Washington, 40; Boston, 13.

Los Angeles, 34; New York, 10.

Santa And The Good Boy

CHAPTER NINE

Tom Gets the Red Wool

Little Tom Clover drifted down into the Land of Tomorrow and landed ever so gently on the velvety grass in front of a fairy-like house made entirely of glass.

A curly haired boy ran out of the house. "Hello!" he cried happily. "Have you come to play with me?"

Tom thought he was the happiest boy he had ever seen and he would have loved to stay and play. But, instead, he said, "I must go to Nettybo where the red sheep grazes."

Then he told the boy who he was and how he had to get the red wool for Mr. Sleek so he could get a star to decorate his Christmas tree.

The boy said, "Nettybo is the village in the valley but the red sheep is kept in a meadow guarded by bulls and the bulls are guarded by an evil witch. You could never get the wool!"

"I must try anyway," said Tom and he started away.

"Wait!" cried the boy. "My name is Peter. Let me come with you! Oh, please do—for I seldom go anywhere!"

Tom smiled. "Come then," he said. "For I do not even know the way."

So Peter took Tom down the mountain and into the valley and showed him where the meadow lay. It was a great field surrounded by a high fence and a herd of bulls. In the middle of the field a lonely sheep grazed and the sheep's wool blazed red in the noonday sun.

At the gate of the fence sat a horrendous creature with slits for eyes and two holes in her face for a nose. Her hair was like a wet mop and her teeth like broken stones. Peter and Tom gasped with horror as they stood before her.

Finally Tom cleared his throat and said, "Please, mam, May we have the key to the gate so I can get a handful of wool?"

"I will give you wool!" growled the witch and she leaped up and began tugging at his hair to pull it out by the roots.

Then it was that Tom remembered his mother once told him: "A woman likes nice words, Tom," she had said. "No matter who she is."

"Old witch!" he cried, his head aching with pain. "You are a remarkable being! Your cheeks glow like red coals in a grate. Your eyes are like coffee and cream. Your hair glistens like boiled spaghetti and your voice soars like a peanut vender's."

The horrible witch let Tom go and stared at him in astonishment. "It is really so?" she begged. Her voice quavered with hope.

"Really, really," said Tom. "You are the most entrancing witch I have ever seen."

The old creature fumbled in her pocket and brought out a key. "Never has anyone said such things to me," she faltered and the rusty tears were running down her cheeks. "I've been here 7000 years and never before heard those things a woman loves to hear. Take the key, children. And here are two feathers. Keep the feathers in your hats and the bulls will not trouble you."

Then she went off to find a mirror to admire herself.

Peter and Tom unlocked the gate and entered the meadow. Instantly the herd of bulls charged, snorting furiously, with horns lowered to kill.

The boys stood quaking. But when the bulls were almost upon them the angry animals saw the feathers and turned away.

"What magic!" cried Tom and he ran across the meadow with Peter at his side.

The red sheep gazed at them solemnly and moved not an inch while Tom snatched out his pocket knife and chopped off a fistful of crimson wool.

He stuck the wool in his pocket and turned and ran away. But, the curly haired Peter, at his heels, suddenly lost his footing and fell headlong in the grass.

Tom ran on. When he was nearly to the gate he stopped in amazement for every bull in the meadow was screaming with rage and charging past.

Then Tom turned and saw that Peter had lost his hat and, with it, the feather that would keep the bulls away!

INFLATION IN RUSSIA IS NOT DISASTER SIGN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

There is no occasion for excitement, among either friends or foes of Russia, in Moscow's announcement of decision to devalue the ruble as a counter-measure against the inflation which has beset the country.

Inflation isn't a malady which attaches itself to any particular form of economy, but is as common as measles in these unhealthy post-war days. Even mighty America has a rash and the sniffles.

When the so-called "panic buying" began some folk hastily decided that Russian economy was collapsing. However, close observers declined to adopt this thesis. U. S. Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett told the Senate appropriations committee that the situation didn't indicate a breakdown of Soviet economy, and that it would be a mistake to attach too much importance to the Russian buying spree.

Too Soon To Tell

Of course this appraisal has to do with the current situation in Russia, and has no bearing on what may develop there in the future. The fact that there is inflation in the Soviet union now obviously doesn't prove that the communist system of economy can't be made to work, any more than inflation in the United States proves that an economy based on private enterprise is wrong.

So far as the economy of communism is concerned, only time will demonstrate exactly what effect it will have on Russia and the countries which Moscow has brought under Red domination. One thing seems clear, and this is that a totalitarian government can make any sort of economy—no matter how extreme—work for a time. We saw Mussolini do it; we saw Hitler do it, and we have seen the Muscovites do it. Few things are beyond a police state which has the power of life and death over its subjects and can make them use beans for cash if it wants to.

However, the fact that an economy can be made to work under duress doesn't prove it to be good. There are many economists of the western world who believe strongly that the communist economy will blow up in due course. But there seems to be little disposition to accept the present inflation in Russia as providing support for that belief.

of the ministerium co-operating. The opening service of this mission will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen of the Gettysburg Theological Seminary on January 18. From January 19 to 23 the ministerium has secured the services of the Rev. Dr. Frederick K. Stamm, pastor of the First Congregational church, Chicago, Ill., who is known for his coast to coast broadcast during the summer months on "Highlights of the Bible."

Vespers Start January 25

The host pastor also announced that following the preaching mission there will be another series of union vesper services from January 25 to March 14 in St. John's Lutheran, Redeemer's Reformed, Centenary Methodist and St. Paul's Lutheran churches, with guest preachers each Sunday evening. Following the announcements there was another congregational hymn, "Jesus, Thou Joy of Loving Hearts."

The sermon of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church. His theme was, "Beyond Reason," which was the second in a series of two sermons on the theme, "Reason and Beyond Reason." His text was St. Matthew 11:24. He said: "Life is greater than logic. Therefore, to answer the deeper problems of life man must go beyond the mind to the heart. Christianity enables us to do that through Trust, Prayer, the Forgiveness of Sins, Jesus Christ, the Triune God and the Resurrection. These unexplainable tenets of the Christian Faith are the revealed truths of God that are sometimes hidden from the wise and prudent and are revealed to babes."

The closing hymn was "Give to Our God, Immortal Praise" after which the vesper services were brought to a close with the Rev. Charles B. Rebert pronouncing the Benediction.

Cooperative Kitchen By Lehigh Students

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—A group of Lehigh university students have formed a cooperative kitchen in an attempt to bring their average weekly food bills down to pre-war levels.

Known as Luck (Lehigh University Cooperative Kitchen), the plan was suggested yesterday by the stewards of four fraternity houses. Under the plan a purchasing agent will buy all food for campus groups and operate an employment agency for cooks and waiters.

The four who suggested the plan are Frederick Ruoff, Maplewood, N. J.; Delta Tau Delta; Joseph Shearer, Washington, D. C.; Chi Phi; Bruce Ogilvie, Oceanide, N. Y.; Lambda Chi Alpha, and William Porro, Glen Rock, N. J.; Theta Kappa Phi.

The famous coffee houses of London sold more tea than any other beverage.

FIRE AT LANCASTER

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—Fire swept the auto and truck body works of C. H. Koser at nearby Landsville, causing damage estimated by firemen at $25,000. Firemen said the blaze started early yesterday in the boiler room at the rear of the plant and was confined to the three story brick building.

About 75 per cent of the dyes made in the United States are used in textiles.

Eisenhower Given Gold Medal Award

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The continued welfare of the U. S. Army is essential to the maintenance of order at many "far-flung stations" where there might be "disorder, anarchy and chaos" if American forces were withdrawn, says general of the army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower was given the Pennsylvania society's Gold Medal award Saturday night in recognition of his "leadership in defense of civilization and vast contribution to the preservation of American liberty."

The award was presented Eisenhower by Senator Edward Martin (R-Pa.) with a number of Pennsylvania civic and political leaders in attendance at society's 49th annual dinner.

Among those present at the dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel were Gov. James H. Duff and Lt. Gov. Daniel B. Strickler of Pennsylvania; David L. Lawrence, Mayor of Pittsburgh and Democratic state chairman; George W. Maxey, chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme court; Sen. Francis J. Myers (D-Pa.) and Mayor Clarence J. Lonzor of Hazleton, Pa., who presented his city's flag to the society to be placed with those already given the society by other cities.

Thugs Make Mistake But Get Loot Anyway

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Three robbers who apparently entered the wrong home escaped with a fur coat, jewelry, a car and other goods valued at $3,000.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Richard Neumaier of suburban Melrose Park told them the robbers entered their home yesterday and demanded: "Where's the taproom money?"

Neumaier told police the robbers apparently were seeking the home of another Melrose Park resident who operates a taproom. Told that they had the wrong home, the robbers proceeded to take a fur coat and jewelry belonging to Mrs. Neumaier and then drove off in her husband's car.

Church Service Is Delayed By Blaze

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Sunday morning services at the Protestant Episcopal church of St. Jude and the Nativity were held 15 minutes later than usual—with firemen receiving credit for the brevity of the delay.

A member of the congregation noticed smoke coming from the roof of the parish house adjoining the 104-year-old church shortly before services were to start yesterday and summoned firemen. Fifteen minutes later the blaze was extinguished and the Rev. Arthur Francis Gibson was leading the opening hymn.

LEWIS CALLS IN DISTRICT 50 MEN

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Leaders of John L. Lewis' eleven-year-old district 50, created to wage union organizing war in any direction, were summoned into session today in Lewis' first move since "disaffiliation" with the AFL.

Whether the conference of regional directors and other lieutenants in the miscellaneous United Mine Workers affiliate meant that the UMWA boss might strike out in a drive to start a third major labor movement remained to be seen.

Any such plan, if Lewis entertains it, would be seriously hampered by his refusal to sign the non-Communist affidavit required by the Taft-Hartley act. As a result no UMWA unions are eligible to use the National Labor Relations Board machinery for gaining collective bargaining recognition.

Some federal labor officials say privately that Lewis may encounter trouble holding what he does have in district 50—if not in the soft and hard coal industries because of this disadvantage. His unions can gain bargaining rights only by proving to employers that they are strong enough to force recognition.

Lewis claims some 250,000 members in his various district 50 unions which have gained footholds in such widely diversified fields as the chemical, brick making and textile industries. CIO leaders, however, dispute this membership claim and say the total is closer to 50,000.

Find Boy's Body In Creek; Lost 7 Days

Harmony, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—A seven-day search for 3-year-old Richard (Butch) Lutz, blond and blue-eyed, ended yesterday when his snowsuit-clad body was found in Connequeness creek.

A definite clue that the tot had fallen into the creek near his home did not turn up until two days after he disappeared. The clue came from a seven-year-old boy who said he saw Richard tumble into the stream.

Until this was known a search for the Lutz boy was conducted by 400 volunteers with planes and bloodhounds.

$100,000 FIRE

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Flames that swept through the warehouse and office building of the Federation of Jewish Charities at 12th and Walnut streets caused damage estimated at $100,000. Deputy Fire Marshal Joseph Feeley said the blaze Saturday night was the second fire in the building in a week.

SAYS PEACE MUST COME

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Lasting peace must be the eventual result of World War II says former Congressman Daniel K. Hoch. Hoch, who is historian of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, told the 100th anniversary P. O. S. of A. dinner meeting Saturday night that Russia eventually will "come to her senses."

Chapter 1

As he had every day for the past three months, Brent Carter glanced hopefully at the automatic elevator, observed that the Out of Order sign still hung askew over the button, and began the four flight ascent to his apartment. His long legs took the stairs easily but he was muttering fervently when he turned his key in the lock.

When the door swung inward a girl seated on a sofa opposite it looked up from the magazine in her lap. Her legs were calf-deep in a tub of hot water and a dubious frown puckered her forehead. At sight of Brent her scowl retreated. "Darling! The prodigal returns! Forgive me for not getting up."

Brent grinned appreciatively. It still seemed a small miracle to him that this lively, red-haired green-eyed creature had ever consented to become Mrs. Brentwood Carter. After three years his astonishment at the fact was undiminished.

"Got room for a pair of size eleven, Pam?"

"Umm, gallons of hot water and a full can of mustard."

Brent kissed her lightly, retrieved two stubbies of iced beer from the kitchenette and, removing his shoes and socks, joined her on the sofa.

"If this is what is meant by conjugal bliss," he said pontifically, "I'm all for it."

Pamela clinked her bottle against his. "Here's to us then, though I've always heard that warm feet and cool heads were signs of good health, or is that a cold nose . . . or is that animals?"

His wife's involved questions usually made Brent chuckle but now he glowed and nodded. "Speaking of animals—"

An enormous orange Persian cat had stalked in from the bedroom. He surveyed Brent with cool disinterest then began sharpening his claws on the nearest upholstered chair. Brent flicked her at it.

"Your effusive welcome overwhelms me, Zarathustra."

"He's really very fond of you dear," Pam insisted.

"Does he think I'm a mind reader? The only time that feline pays the slightest attention to me is when you finish your creamed tuna before I do."

"Cats just aren't demonstrative."

"That, Mrs. Carter, is an abysmal understatement."

"They're really very deep and intelligent."

"I await Zara's first exhibition of foresaid qualities with bated breath."

"I bought him for you."

"Bunk," Brent teased. "You bought him because he complimented your hair and eyes. You make a striking pair and you know it."

"That wasn't the reason," Pam maintained loftily. "I bought him because he was named after a scholar and I thought we needed a savante in the family."

He was also named after a fire worshipper," Brent reminded, "and all we have to offer him is a hot plate."

Pam drained the last of her stubby. "After noon tomorrow, we won't have that," she said in a hollow voice.

Brent groaned. "I was waiting for that. No luck?"

"None. Why do bad tidings always come in triplicate, darling? I've covered more territory in the past eight hours than Mrs. Roosevelt does in My Day, with diametrical results. I inspected every possible garage, attic and basement in Greenwich Village with the hope of turning it into a home for us. Someone beat me to each one. What's more, we haven't even a day of grace—our lease is up tomorrow and I had a telegram from the Wells that they'll be here at the stroke of twelve."

"What's foul play Number Three?"

"The parts for the elevator arrived. The janitor says it will be in operation by tomorrow night!" Pam dissolved into giggles.

Brent didn't join her. He used up eight matches lighting his pipe then sucked on it noisily. His eyes shifted to his watch.

"We've twenty hours to think of something or move in on your family."

"Unh unh. My parents are the best in the world but I'm strictly anti-in-law when it comes to housing and you are too. Besides Sis and her lively brood are already parked with them. Besides Baltimore would be much too inconvenient for you to commute."

Brent grinned down at her. "Besides—"

"Besides I have thought of something. Look at this!"

Pam held up the literary magazine she had been reading when Brent entered. Her slim finger pointed to a notice tucked in among a column of advertisements for typists, secretaries and agents.

Attractive caretaker's cottage, rent free for nine months to ex-G.I. Remote section coastal Maine. Car necessary. Suite 602, Drake Bldg., N.Y.C.

Brent read it and stared at Pam. "Are you under the illusion that Maine is closer to New York City than Baltimore is?"

Pam faced him steadily. He found himself admiring her green amber-flecked irises even more than he had the first time he'd seen them over the rim of a champagne goblet at a classmate's wedding.

"I'm suggesting you give up your job, Brent, and get at that book that's been nagging you ever since V-J Day. You know you don't like being in an insurance office. You just took the position because it pays better than your old newspaper job and now you've a wife to support."

Brent wiped beer from his lips and kissed her. "Madam, you are psychic!"

Chapter 2

Brent stared at Pam as though she were a Greek oracle resurrected. "Am I transparent?"

"No darling, it's just that I'm in love with you."

His arm encircled her waist and pulled her to him. "That makes it mutual. About this ad though, someone has probably already answered it."

"I doubt it. The Review just came out today and most people can't toss over their jobs so easily. The remoteness is the catch in this."

Brent's dark brown eyes were glowing. The idea for the book had been haunting him like a guilty secret yet the leisure and quiet in which to write it had seemed as far away as the place in the ad. He hoisted his feet from the hot water.

"Get your bonnet. I'll warm up Jeezabel and meet you in front."

For all Brent could do with green paint and Pamela with air cushions and chintz seat covers, Jeezabel's sturdy snub-nosed silhouette still proclaimed her a jeep. She attracted curious and sometimes derisive comment but she got the Carters where they wished to go. Now she took them to the Drake Building and swiveled into an incredibly small parking space.

They took the elevator to the sixth floor and found suite 602. There was no name on the door; Pam's hand hesitated on the knob.

"You know Brent, I feel as if there is something significant about this particular moment."

He chuckled dryly.

"Significant? How could it be? It merely decides whether we begin a trek for New England or ask the Central Park pigeons to move over and give us sleeping room."

As they entered the suite, both Pam and Brent were struck by the very impersonality of the room. There was something neat, precise and characterless about the place; it was a room for conducting a business transaction.

When the door closed behind them with a metallic click another one opposite opened and a middle-aged man entered carrying a porte-manteau and a lurid-covered adventure magazine. Carefully closing the door after him he raised his thin gray eyebrows inquiringly.

"We were interested in your advertisement in the Review," Brent explained. "I suppose we're too late?"

"On the contrary you are the first."

Pam couldn't suppress a little gurgle of pleasure. "You mean we may not have to sleep in Central Park?"

The gentleman frowned. "Have you ever been evicted?"

"Oh no!" Pam sounded horrified. "NO complaints from the neighbors, but our lease is up tomorrow and apartments are strangely difficult to find. Or didn't you know?"

The stranger ignored her levity. "I am Mr. Spence," he announced.

The Carters stared. Yet if there was anything unusual about Mr. Spence it was his very common-placesness. Graying hair, neatly clipped, regular, somewhat pinched features, steel rimmed glasses that caught the half light and left the onlooker with an uncertain impression of gray or blue or brown eyes. A medium priced business suit with a subdued narrow stripe. In fact Mr. Spence was typical of a thousand men whom a city-dweller will pass on the street every day, so sure of their uniformity that he doesn't give them even a first glance.

"We are Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood Carter," Brent returned.

Mr. Spence nodded. "You were in the Army of course. What rank?"

"A captain by V-J day."

His interrogator frowned. "Hmm, the advertisement said G.I."

"What difference does it make?"

"Just a whim of my client's. Of course men of the officer class are apt to be more intelligent and . . . shall we say critical?"

The undercurrent of snobbery in his tone set Brent's teeth on edge. "Not in this was weren't," he corrected. "And I started in as a corporal if that makes you feel any better."

Mr. Spence smiled nastily. "My dear Carter, it doesn't matter to me one way or the other. It's not my house."

Brent stiffened with belligerence until an urgent tug from Pam at the back of his coat reminded him that their housing situation was desperate.

"Could you tell us something about it?"

"Certainly." The tips of Mr. Spence's fingers massaged the desk's smooth polished surface as though he were preparing to address the beaming members of a Ladies Musical Club.

"My client owns a summer estate on the northern coast of Maine. There is a small attractive caretaker's cottage completely furnished and he feels it would be nice for some returned service man to occupy the cottage rent free in exchange for care of the estate. It's just sentiment with him."

"What sort of care?" Brent said suspiciously. He had a momentary vision of cutting rolling expanses of lawn and pruning miles of shrubbery, occupations rather than do which he would prefer Central Park any day.

"Oh there isn't any real work connected with it," Mr. Spence hastened to inform him. "Just keeping marauders off the property. The house is closed and there will be no necessity for you to enter it at all. But there are always vagrants and children who find occasions to trespass on private property and my client had a few valuable pieces of furniture, etcetera."

"It's near a town then?"

"A very small village, you might say. Cove Point. Not much there."

For some reason Mr. Spence was smiling as though he had just swallowed the canary and found it a very succulent bird indeed.

Chapter 3

From behind his highly-polished desk Mr. Spence stared fixedly at Brent. "May I ask what you plan to do if you take the cottage?"

Brent hesitated, half expecting Pam to burst forth with the news of his literary pursuits but she was apparently fascinated by the door leading to the next room and seemed unaware of Spence's question.

"I have hopes of writing a book."

Brent looked sheepish, realized that he did and tried to form his features into the serious pedantic lines of a prospective author.

Evidently Mr. Spence was one of the majority who consider writers in a class with tight-rope walkers, deep sea divers, and those other daring souls who follow risky and uncertain professions.

"Oh," he said slowly. "Then you are unemployed at present?"

"No, I have a position with Bittern, Branche and Smythe—Insurance."

"And you're going to attempt a book!"

Mr. Spence was clearly scandalized. For a moment Brent wavered . . . perhaps he was making a mistake, the book might be a flop, in another year jobs might be damned hard to find. The gentle pressure of Pam's fingers resolved him. "That's right," he confirmed.

The steel-rimmed glasses glittered briefly. Mr. Spence shrugged. If a man was fool enough to abandon a steady job it was none of his affair.

"Excuse me," he muttered and went into the next room, closing the door after him; a moment later they heard the faint tinkle of a phone.

Brent grinned at Pam. "Checking up on my sterling character with good old Bittern, Branche and Smythe."

She merely nodded and he gazed at her worriedly. It was as unthinkable able of Pam to stay out of any conversation as it was to expect Zarathustra to lick his hand. She had been strangely silent ever since their arrival.

Mr. Spence returned and laid some keys and a revolver on the desk.

"These are duplicate keys to the caretaker's cottage. The revolver is to enforce your authority. That's all that's expected of you—to keep marauders off the property. If anyone should come from us I'll give him a letter of introduction, but I don't think there'll be anyone. You can use a gun, can't you?"

Brent swallowed. "If I have to."

"Well, I suppose that's all then. The name of the estate is Clearview. You'd better drive to Machias and ask directions to Cove Point from there. You'll be leaving soon?"

"Tomorrow morning. Goodbye Mr. Spence, we'll see you in nine months."

In the corridor Pamela rapidly recovered her animation; her eyes were dancing mysteriously.

"Brent, someone was watching us the entire time we were in there! I could see his eye at the keyhole."

"Probably Mr. Spence's unnamed client."

"Mmm. Doesn't the set-up seem a little queer to you?"

"Yep," he grinned mockingly. "but not queer enough to dissuade me from grabbing a free roof for my head when I have the opportunity."

"I'm just a g-y-y-psy, hitting the lonesome trail-1-1."

Brent bellowed in an uncertain baritone as he assembled typewriter and suitcases at the door of the apartment. "Ah, this is the life, Pam! No possessions to speak of, no furniture to tie us down. Nothing we can't put in a box at a moment's notice and shove off."

"Sometimes I think you're still a bachelor at heart," Pam chided from the bedroom.

"Unh unh. My heart is fettered but my soul is free." He smiled at himself fatuously in the mirror. "Pretty good line that, Carter."

"Too good to be original," Pam said at his elbow.

He scowled at her. "Woman wouldst discourage my talent before it's even had a chance to take its first steps?"

"If that's a sample of your talent it looks as though we'll spend our old age eating bread and cheese in a garret. Poets don't make very much money, dear."

Brent swung around and grasped her shoulders. All signs of levity vanished from his long saturnine face. "Sure you want to go through with it, Pam?"

Her eyes grew enormous. "Wasn't it my idea?"

"Yes, and I think you're an amazingly perceptive wife. But I've always heard that security meant more to a woman than anything and . . . well, the book may be a washout."

LAST YANKEES LEAVE ITALY

Leghorn, Dec. 15 (AP)—The last American Occupation troops in Italy were homeward bound today aboard the transport Admiral Sims, thus bringing to an end a military operation which began when U. S. forces stormed ashore in the Salerno area on September 9, 1943.

The troops—97 officers and 1,356 enlisted men—sailed yesterday exactly nine hours and 45 minutes ahead of the midnight deadline set for their departure by the Italian Peace treaty. The transport is due in New York within eight days.

Their departure, which the Italians watched with mingled feelings because of the country's internal political situation, left on Italian soil only a graves registration unit and a handful of members of the Military Liquidation administration—in all about 300 men.

Departure of the last members of the American Occupation Army coincided with the departure from Venice of the last remnants of the British Army of Occupation.

Both the Americans and British, however, still have troops on duty in the free territory of Trieste at the head of the Adriatic, which was stripped from Italy under terms of the peace treaty. The U. S. forces at Trieste are members of the 88th Division, which formerly was under the Mediterranean theater command.

Pam stood on tiptoe and kissed his chin.

"What have we got to lose? It will be nine months of experience. At the end of it I'll be twenty-four and you'll be twenty-nine. I'll be the envy wife of a rising young author and you'll be gracing the best seller list in the back of the Herald Tribune Book Review."

"And we'll be broke."

"Not so, darling. We've got three thousand in our savings account. I figure we won't use more than a third of that for food and stuff during our sojourn in Maine. We'll let the rest ride."

In spite of himself Brent chuckled. "You should be moving to Wall Street; you've got all the earmarks of an incipient Hetty Green."

Pam made a face at him. "My ancestors weren't Scotch for nothing. Come on, let's go. You take the bags and I'll take—Zara and typewriter."

The cat peered at them sullenly from its traveling box. When they opened the door Brent walked over and gave the elevator a furtive kick. "A pox on you, damit," he said, then burst into laughter as Pam raced him down the stairs.

Senator Forecasts Aid Results Abroad

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—U. S. Senator Ball (R-Minn.) says he believes the Marshall plan in many cases will raise European living standards to above pre-war levels "but I want assurance that our expenditures stand at least a 50-50 chance of achieving results."

"They don't have to take our money if they don't want it," the Senator told the Philadelphia Foreign Policy association Saturday night. "Being an international Santa Claus is becoming a bit too expensive."

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Work will start today on a $1,000,000 project to modernize the Reading railroad's terminal at 12th and Market streets. The project, designed to improve passenger facilities in Reading terminal, was announced Saturday by Reading President R. W. Brown.

SANTA CLAUS DELIVERS BY DECEMBER 25th -and so do KAISER-FRAZER dealers!

Yes! Delivery by Christmas! If your family needs a new car why not buy one for Christmas? You can put the keys to a new Kaiser or Frazer on your Christmas tree—and the car itself will be out in front of your home! Yes, if you make up your mind within the next three days, we guarantee that, like Santa Claus, we will deliver by December 25th.

You and yours can't get a Christmas thrill out of a gift certificate! You can't ride this winter in a car you may get next Spring! So, if you are tired of waiting, tired of promises, and tired of driving that old, worn-out, prewar relic you have "made-do" till now, come in! Willow Run production has been stepped up again — and we are delivering now!

Why the Kaiser and the Frazer Give You Unequalled Motor Car Value!

Kaiser-Frazer Corporation builds four, 100% postwar automobiles—the Kaiser, the Frazer, the Frazer Manhattan, and the Kaiser Custom. Each in its price class gives you the greatest value you can get for your money. This you can easily and quickly prove.

The value of a motor car, as any automobile dealer will tell you, is based on four primary points: Appearance, Performance, Reputation, Year Built.

Appearance—Is it modern? How up-to-date will its lines be a year or two from now? Kaiser-Frazer automobiles are unquestioned style leaders. They have established the new trend in motor car design which the rest of the industry is already beginning to follow.

Performance—means more than just plenty of power! It includes economy, roadability, roominess, comfort, and safety on all types of roads. Kaiser-Frazer cars, with 100% postwar chassis, are famous for the economy resulting from high horsepower-to-weight ratio; for safety that comes with a lower center of gravity; for roominess that is the result of both seats 2 inches more than 5 feet wide; and above all, for their ride — the result of a new distribution of load.

Typesetters At Norristown Lose

Norristown, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—Typesetters at the Norristown Times-Herald today ended a one-week strike, returning to work on what a management spokesman said were "company terms."

W. H. Shelton, general manager of the newspaper, said that the 43 typesetters, members of local 620, AFL-International Typographers Union, accepted the paper's last wage offer and returned on an open-shop basis. The union previously had won a closed shop.

Shelton said the open-closed shop issue was not a central issue in the dispute. The general manager said that since the strike began last Monday, the newspaper had hired "12 to 15" new typesetters. When asked how many would be retained, Shelton said "if there's work enough for all of them, we'll keep them all. If not, we'll just have to keep the best men and let the others go."

FOUND GUILTY

Reading, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—Frank S. Linkowski, 28, was convicted by a jury of five men and seven women of voluntary manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Frank Zabczyk, 24, in the Polish Falcons club. The jury deliberated three hours before returning the verdict last night. Linkowski was charged with shooting Zabczyk after an argument.

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—A veteran naval flying officer will take over command of the Naval Air station at nearby Willow Grove tomorrow, succeeding Capt. Charles Ewan, head of the station since 1945. The new commanding officer is Capt. Carroll B. Jones, 45, a graduate of Annapolis in 1926 and a veteran of World War II.

JEWS DEMAND EVACUATION OF ARABS' FORCES

Jerusalem, Dec. 15 (AP)—Jewish leaders called upon the Palestine government today to order the immediate evacuation from Palestine of all Trans-Jordan Arab Legion troops, a detachment of which yesterday machinegunned a truck convoy near Tel Aviv, killing 14 Jews and wounding 15 others.

The Arab Legion forces, which are offered by Britons, are on loan to the Palestine government for police duty in the Holy Land.

Demands for withdrawal of the forces coincided with a grenade attack on a truckload of Arab Legion troops near the Mustapha police barracks in Jerusalem. One soldier was injured in the bombing.

Report Attacks

A spokesman for Hagana declared that "failure of the British to evacuate these foreign troops will be considered a British provocation against the Jewish defense forces."

A Jewish Agency official, who also demanded withdrawal of the Arab Legion, said Legionnaires had attacked Jews in at least three places yesterday.

He complained that highway security control was "completely ineffective" throughout Palestine and suggested that food convoys be led and followed by armored cars "as they were during the Arab revolt of 1936-39."

Food Supplies Low

Overland transport throughout Palestine—already badly disrupted—was further demoralized by the convoy attack yesterday. Food supplies in Jerusalem and other cities ran low as the Holy Land began to feel the pinch of broken communication resulting from 16 days of bitter communal strife that has claimed 242 lives.

Hagana, Jewish defense force, termed the machinegunning an "unprovoked attack." A Palestine government spokesman, however, said that jittery Jewish settlement police guarding the convoy "apparently lost their heads" when they saw the Arab troops and opened fire, causing the Arabs to return the fire under the impression they were being attacked.

The incident was the worst blow thus far suffered by highway convoys, which have been subject to repeated attacks by roving Arab bands.

More Attacks Today

The attacks continued today with an assault on a convoy of Jewish trucks carrying food to Kfar Gileadi in Upper Galilee, where a Jewish policeman was slain. This death—the 242nd in Palestine since the United Nations Assembly voted to partition the Holy Land—brought to 363 the toll of fatalities throughout the Middle East.

Tons of imported goods were reported piling up in the port of Haifa as more and more truck transport was knocked out by the continuing strife and more frightened workers stayed away from their jobs.

Hardest hit were the Jewish and foreign communities, which depend for their supplies largely upon imports and Jewish distributors in Tel Aviv. Arabs with donkeys and camels continued to carry Arab goods to their own communities.

In Jerusalem bakers were short of flour and queues formed in front of shops awaiting each baking. Milk

Mrs. Dorothy Moynihan of Natick, Mass., greets her nine-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Valerie Parker, after the child's arrival at LaGuardia Field, N. Y., from London. The child was adopted by a Cardiff, Wales, couple after Mrs. Moynihan divorced Valerie's father three years ago. After her remarriage the mother asked the child's return necessitating the adoption proceedings.

Thomas Knesis (above), eight-year-old son of John Knesis, 40, slain by gunmen in Chicago's latest underworld killing orgy, was found by police whom he told he had run away from home. The boy's disappearance at first was thought to be connected with the shootings.

Miner Still Trapped In 200-Ft. Coal Hole

Shamokin, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—Raymond Edwards, 54-year-old father of nine children, was still trapped in a 200-foot deep coal hole near Gowen City today, with rescue workers holding out little hope that he would be brought out alive.

Edmunds, and two other miners, were in the coal hole when water from an adjoining abandoned mine broke into the workings and rushed down on the men.

Marlin Gessner, 27-years-old, of Gowen City, heard the onrushing water and rushed up the slope to safety. But Edmunds and Anthony Gracowski, 43, who only started to supplies were dwindling, meat counters were bare and vegetable vendors kept off the streets.

SHOE MACHINERY 'MONOPOLY' TO RESULT IN SUIT

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Attorney General Clark today charged the United Shoe machinery corporation of Boston with establishing a monopoly in production of machinery for making shoes.

Clark announced a civil anti trust suit was filed this morning in the U. S. District Court at Boston, under the Sherman Anti Trust Act.

A justice department statement said the suit seeks to compel the corporation to sell all its plants used in manufacture of shoe factory supplies and some of its plants manufacturing shoe machinery and tanning machinery "and to offer to sell its machinery to shoe manufacturers instead of only leasing, as it does now, and to make available to its competitors all patents and know-how relating to shoe machinery."

The announcement said the company manufactures over 90 per cent of most of the important types of shoe machinery "and is the only company in this country which can completely equip a shoe factory with all necessary machinery."

The attorney general said the corporations alleged monopoly "has destroyed the independence of the shoe industry of the United States."

Assistant Attorney General John R. Sonnett, whose antitrust division was instructed by Clark several months ago to concentrate on any evidences of monopolistic practices in the food, clothing and housing fields, said in a statement that United Shoe Machinery Corporation "has acquired 4,172 patents since 1930."

"It uses only 363 of these in machines introduced since 1930," Sonnett asserted. "Most of its patents have been laid away on the shelf. United has compelled manufac-with the solo by Miss Martha L. Herman.

Preceding the choir's second group of numbers, the audience joined in singing "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," with the trumpeters furnishing the accompaniment.

"In Dulci Jubilo," a fourteenth century carol, opened the choir's second group of numbers, with George F. Brown carrying the solo part. The choir was particularly effective in "Hosanna," by Christiansen, and followed this with "Sleeping in a Manger," by MacGimsey, in which the solo part was taken by Miss Dorothy L. Moss, and "The Shepherd's Story," by Dickinson, with Miss Herman as soloist again.

Dr. Hanson Speaks
The audience joined with the choir in singing two verses of "Silent Night, Holy Night," with an off-stage quartet of the choir members repeating each stanza, and the postlude was given by trumpeters.

In his Christmas message Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, urged everyone to "Say Merry Christmas not only on Christmas Day, but every one of the 365 days of the year."

"We lift grateful hearts for the day that changed the world," Dr. Hanson said. "There is great joy about Christmas. No other festival turters to use obsolete shoe machinery, thus retarding the introduction of mass production techniques in the manufacture of shoes and preventing reductions in shoe manufacturing costs by the use of modern machinery."

has been so widely adopted throughout the world. But Christmas has a broader meaning than can be concentrated on any one day. We observe Christmas day, but forget that unless we observe the 364 other days like it we have failed in the great purpose of God.

Points Way To Unity
"Worship," Dr. Hanson said, "is the gateway through which man passes to God's favor. It lifts him before the throne of God."

"Christmas is a season when people ought to go over their blessings in life, the blessings of our country, its heroes and its hallowed. People in other countries are hungry. We are not. People in other countries are cold. We are not. These are not blessings to be lightly considered at Christmas time."

"Every blessing becomes an obligation, not to take with outstretched hands, but to give to others. The only way to have one world is to have one attitude toward Christ."

Special Decorations
The theater was decorated for the concert with large Christmas trees on either side of the stage, each tree decorated and lighted, and a large holly wreath in the center back of the choir with garlands of laurel draped from it. Below the Christmas trees on either side were large candles electrically lighted. The decorations were done by the Student Christian Association.

Use of the theater was through the courtesy of Warner Brothers, Inc., and Sidney J. Poppay, manager.

Attractive programs bearing a picture of the manger scene in colors were presented the audience upon entering the theater.

US COMMISSION ON EDUCATION MAKES REPORT

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Federal financial help to double college enrollments by 1960 was proposed by President Truman's commission on higher education.

Adding a denunciation of minority "quota systems" and racial segregation in schooling to its first report, the 28-member body said the United States not only faces shortages of doctors, teachers and others but stands in peril of fostering an "intellectual elite."

Mr. Truman released the 103-page document with a statement urging that all citizens "examine it carefully."

Attack Quota System
"For the great majority of our boys and girls," the report said, "the kind and amount of education they may hope to attain depends, not on the family or community into which they happen to be born or, worse still, on the color of their skin or the religions of their parents."

The report criticized the "quota system" for admission by which it said many universities deny learning to "certain minorities, particularly to Negroes and Jews."

"This practice is a violation of a major American principle and is contributing to the growing tension in one of the most crucial areas of our democracy," said the commission headed by George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education.

Four southern members of the commission dissented from the findings on segregation.

State Will Market Million Xmas Trees

State College, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—More than a million Christmas trees will be marketed by Pennsylvania tree nurseries this year, Frank T. Murphey, professor of forestry extension at the Pennsylvania State college, said today.

The Keystone state leads the nation in growing the Yule trees, Murphey said in citing that Christmas tree production here has become a million dollar industry.

1 KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Howard, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—An Army Air Force investigation was being pushed today into the cause of the crash of a National Guard plane that killed one man while five other members of the crew parachuted to safety.

The crash occurred Saturday night, the plane landing in the Victor Thompson farm near here. M. W. Zimmerman, who reached the scene shortly after the crash said "there was little left of the plane. The dead man was burned almost beyond recognition."

H. E. Hickernell, public relations officer at the Middletown Army Air depot, where the plane was due to land, identified the dead man as Capt. Kenneth L. Lane, of Sioux Falls, S. D., home base for the plane and crew.

The five men who escaped before the craft plummeted to earth were Lt. J. R. Sacher, Lt. Gordon Haughen, M/Sgt. Martin P. Fitzgerald, S/Sgt. Clifford Gillen, and M/Sgt. Arthur Eades, all of Sioux Falls.

One of the escaped crewmen was reported to have said "we were told a few minutes before the crash that the plane was out of gas and that we should bail out."

MOTOR OILS UP

Pittsburgh, Dec. 15 (AP)—Price boost on two motor oils were put into effect today by the Gulf Oil Corp. The corporation said retail and wholesale prices of Gulfgrade and Gulfblue were advanced five cents a quart, adding: "The upward revision is necessary to meet steep advances during the last three years in materials and production costs and to defray the increases expenses of operating retail outlets."

During World War II, the United States virtually ceased importing green tea.

The first synthetic dye of commercial importance was produced in 1856.

NAM SPEAKER HITS AT COST OF GOVERNMENT

Pittsburgh, Dec. 15 (AP)—A drastic slash in governmental expenses and a consequent reduction in taxes were advocated today by two Pennsylvania legislators as one way to combat what they described as "a serious degree of inflation."

The proposals were made by Rep. Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, Republican recently elected to fill a vacancy in the 8th Congressional District, and Senator Edward Martin, ex-governor of the commonwealth. Both men lashed out at the national Democratic administration in addresses prepared for delivery before a regional meeting of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

"The cost of living is more than a mere partisan issue," Lichtenwalter declared. "x x x Yes, I am politically minded enough to know the cost of living is going to be one of the important issues of the 1948 campaign."

"I wonder how many of you gentlemen realize that we are paying more today to be governed than we are to eat?" Lichtenwalter asked. "It is appalling, but it is true. Our total tax bill is about 50 billion dollars per year, x x x According to the official statistics the nation's food bill for 1946 was 39 billion dollars."

Cites Four Factors
Lichtenwalter said four factors "led to the current situation." These, he said, were:

1. "The 'easy money' policy of the New Deal administration."
2. "The administration policy x x x of increasing the cost of production by promoting wage increases while at the same time arguing that this could be done without increasing prices."
3. "Unwise and un-businesslike handling of the government's food purchases for foreign relief."
4. "The administration's unwise handling of the removal of price controls."
